

THE 67th BIRTHDAY OF THE PATRIARCH OF ALEXANDRIA

Today is a special day for His Beatitude Theodoros II, Pope and Patriarch of Alexandria and All Africa, as today he celebrates his birthday.

It was November 25, 1954, when Nicholas, later Primate of the Alexandrian Church, Theodoros II, saw the light of day. The Patriarch of Love, the Missionary Father of the entire African continent, the ecclesiastical leader with vision and hope in his heart, is turning sixty-seven today, on the day of the feast of St. Catherine, the All-wise of Alexandria, whose commemoration coincided with his birth, functioned as a "God elected point" for his later course, since, although he was born in the soils of Crete, he was conquered by the land of Africa and based in renowned Alexandria he travels all over the continent doing his work.

Likewise, another "point" is the name of his mother, the late blessed Cleopatra, who supported the Patriarch until the end of her life.
